While people once believed that a preborn child was nothing more than a blob of cells, scientific advancements have given us a much clearer idea of what's really happening within the womb. But while knowledge and understanding have advanced, the pro-abortion message hasn't kept up with the times. In fact, abortion proponents have been quick to deny that the preborn child even has a detectable heartbeat by six weeks (though science shows the heart begins beating three weeks after fertilization). Fortunately, science tells a different story. The Charlotte Lozier Institute (CLI), an organization with more than 60 credentialed scientists, scholars, practicing physicians, statisticians, and other academics, has been studying the science of life in the womb for more than 10 years. In a recent statement, they've shed some light on the facts of life in the womb surrounding the heartbeat. Here's what CLI has to say: The heart is actively beating at 6 weeks. Between conception and birth, the baby's heart will beat approximately 54 million times. The baby's average heart rate is 98 BPM. This will rise to 175 BPM by 9 weeks' gestation. The presence of a heartbeat at 6-8 weeks' gestation correlates with a live birth rate of 98% in normal pregnancies without intervention. The brain has divided into three primary sections responsible for sensing and decision-making, moving and tracking objects, and vital body functions. Eyes, ears, and nose start forming. Speaking up For Life

"Whenever I read Scripture that talks about how much God loves each of us, that He has created us, and that He wants us to share His love, I am always struck by the lack of qualifiers. I do not see where God makes distinctions about who He loves and calls into His family. He loves and calls all—each and every one of us." Mona Fuerstenau

"I pray that the love of Christ emboldens you to rejoice in the Word and to speak it without fear of consequence ... may future generations speak of us like we do of David, Josiah, Luther, and our forefathers. May our children say of you and me, 'Our forefathers stood their ground on Christ alone, on His Word of truth alone.' The truth has set you free. Enjoy your own personal reformation. Then let your freedom in Christ be contagious! Let your life continue to shout: Thank Jesus Christ my Savior! I'm free at last ... and so are you! Amen." Rev. Peter Sulzle, St. John Lutheran Church, Redwood Falls, Minnesota
